Advance Agent for English Militant Says Her Message Will Be Peaceful.

BIG MEETINGS FOR CITY

Miss Joan Wickham Lands Without Opposition in Spite of Her Jail Record as Suffrage Agitator.

"Advance agent for Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the British militant suffrage leader," is rather an awesome title. Miss Jean Wickham somehow doesn't look all that. When she stepped ashere from the White Star liner Cedric yesterday anybody who didn't know her mission would have taken her for just a pretty English

Pretty she certainly is. It's very dis cencerting the way these flerce, destructive militants have of being attractive and innocent looking, and charming and well groumed. Miss Wickham, who has been in the thick of the militant fight, is slender, with dark eyes, rosy cheeks, a most engaging smile, a sweet voice, and from the buckles of her small Colonials to the feather on her hat her clothes were stylish.

Miss Alice Paul and Miss Lucy Burns, of the Congressional Union, who are here for a few days from Washington, met Miss Wickham at the pier, and took her to the headquarters of the Equality Association, at No. 13 East 41st street, where Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, president of the association, met her.

Leader Expects No Trouble.

Did I have any trouble getting into the United States?" Miss Wickham reseated after an inquirer. "No, indeed! I was asked if I had ever been in prison, and, of course, I said yes. I didn't have any trouble, and Mrs. Pankhurst doesn't dream that she will, either, when she lands on October 18."

Miss Wickham said Mrs. Pankhurst would remain a month, and cover as much ground as she could in that time. She will speak at two big meetings in New York directly after arrivingprobably in Carnegie Hall. She hopes to speak in some Southern cities, and will go as far West as Chicago, but I don't Miss Wickham said Mrs. Pankhurst ray A. Potter, Mr and Mrs. Henry C. kept her health wonderfully, after all she Phipps, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Widener and had gone through.

"She has remarkable recuperative power," said Miss Wickham. "Of course, it is her spirit that keeps her up. All the Pankhursts have that same spirit. Will Christabel visit this country? shouldn't wonder if she did later, but she has her work to do there in Paris, from which place she is helping direct the militant campaign. Christabel is even more remarkable than her mother-has a keener intelligence. Christabel is the head and Mrs. Pankhurst the heart of City, after a model of the French sculp the movement."
